BATH ORB

Retail Category

Bath bombs (or called Bath gem, Bath fizz) are in the Health and Beauty category. They are sold in stores such as supermarkets, drug stores, and beauty stores. Bath bombs are usually placed on the middle shelf, and depending on the package, the main packaging faces on front. The UPC code is mainly located on the side or bottom.

Eye catching/ Variations/ Vibrant colors/ Plastics packaging

Ouai's Chill Pill

Geared towards adults who needs to take relaxation & remedy time without any hassle. Packaging is the strength of this product. It housed in a plastic jar, allowing the bath bombs to be protected when it is exposed to shock. However, weakness of this product is the materials of the packaging. Although they advertise their plastic packaging to be recyclable, it is less environmentally friendly as it takes a long time to biodegrade.

Lush's bath bombs

Geared towards teenage and adults. The branding is really well done. They do unique production, budgetfriendly and environment-friendly packaging for other products. Lush sends out a clear brand message to the consumers that they support good and honest values such as environmental protection, opposition against animal testing and human rights. However, they do not have a retail packaging for this context, bath bomb can not be protected from the package.
